

And the numbers are in...Los Gatos Dog Lovers Raise Nearly $115k for K9 Cancer.

April 17, 2014/DENVER –Sunday was definitely a fun-day in Los Gatos, California! Nearly, 1,200 dog lovers rallied to fight canine cancer this past weekend, for the annual Los Gatos K9 Cancer Walk at Vasona Lake Park. The record-breaking event raised nearly $115k for Morris Animal Foundation and their fight to keep dogs happy and healthy through funding cancer research. The annual event is a way for pet lovers to memorialize a beloved dog lost to cancer, celebrate a dog who is a cancer survivor and create a brighter future for a current canine companion.

To add to the day's fun, teams were encouraged to show their team spirit by participating in the Top Dog Contest—this year's winners included:

Top Dog Contest Winners

Top Team Fundraiser: Sage Veterinary Centers with nearly $14,500 raised

Most Team Members: Sage Veterinary Centers with more 100 members

Top Fundraiser (individual): Tracey Davis, with more than $3,000 raised

Most Team Spirit: ParkerPup

“We are thankful to all that participated and fundraised for the Los Gatos K9 Cancer Walk,” said Kate O’Brien, senior events specialist for Morris Animal Foundation. “This event couldn’t have happened without the hard work of all of our wonderful volunteers. It’s because of their passion that this event was a success.”

If you would like to help Morris Animal Foundation fight canine cancer, donations will be accepted through May 1.
